Arkansas' Eclectic Celebration of the Cinema Arts
March 27-30, 2008

The Ozark Foothills FilmFest takes place each year as spring touches the rolling, hills of rural north central. Held the last weekend in March, the festival screens all film genres, seeking out especially works by Arkansas' independent filmmakers and cinematic explorations of rural America. Surrounding the screenings are guest filmmaker Q&As, panel discussions, social gatherings, and live music performances. The 2008 FilmFest will present The Bob Boyd Sounds performing music by the famed Arkansas songwriter and bandleader, Louis Jordan.

Encouraging, Facilitating and Showcasing the Work of Young Filmmakers
July 14-26, 2008

The T Tauri Film Festival and Movie Camp is a summer digital movie event for kids and teens. The multi-faceted event includes a national young filmmaker competition judged by peer jurors, public screenings of movies by youth filmmakers from across the country, and workshops in Digital Video Basics, Documentary Filmmaking, Camcorder FUNDamentals, Acting on Camera, and the Digital Flipbook (animation). Tuition is kept well below the national average and a large number of students receive tuition scholarships.
